

Editorial Calendar

British Columbia History is a quarterly magazine chronicling British Columbia's unique story through the words and images of community writers, archivists, museum professionals, academic historians and more.

Themes

British Columbia History publishes one theme issue per year.

Spring 2018 — Our special issue of 2018 will showcase the stories of old school houses. Articles can tell the story of the building, a specific point in time, or a noteworthy teacher or student.

Spring 2019 — Our special issue of 2019 will focus on the law. Historic legal cases, legal rights, lawyers, etc.

Submissions

Submissions to British Columbia History are reviewed three times a year (Winter, Spring, Fall) by the magazine Readers' Panel, which assists the Editor in selecting articles that are a good fit for the magazine.

Our editorial team makes every effort to respond to all submission enquiries; however, our magazine operates with a small part-time staff and it may take some time for us to get back to you.

Print Schedule

Our editorial team works with set copy deadlines and must often finalize content six months or more in advance of publication.
